HOMLIEST MAN IN STATE IS A RESIDENT OF NYE

JACK REGAN OF BEATTY IS DECLARED THE BEAUTY OF STATE EAGLES.

Jack Regan of the Regan Hot Springs near Beatty, a member of Goldfield aerie of Eagles, will hereafter be known as the homeliest Eagle in the state, having been awarded that prize yesterday during the concluding ceremonies of the state aerie. The committee making the awards was in a quandry for Regan had several competitors. However, he happened to laugh at the wrong time and his facial decorations during the laughing process capped the climax. He was given the prize with the statement that he should fear no competitors hereafter, providing would but laugh during the time the award was being considered.
Henry "Poke" Kelly of Tonopah and Cody of Esmeralda were given honorable mention for being inclined to be homey and suitable awards were tendered them that they might not feel slighted in not receiving the first prize. During the confusion no selection was made for the handsomest Eagle.

P. N. Jones of Tonopah was declared the tallest Eagle attending the convention, while Chas. Lanthaler, also of this city was proclaimed the fattest bird in the exhibit. Poke Kelly, who missed out during the homeliest contest, won revenge when he was pronounced the "shineliest" Eagle in the entire lot. Kelly wears his honors modestly, notwithstanding his two great attainments.

For having the best decorated window Wood-Sullivan were awarded the prize. The decorations at this establishment were carried out by Wm. Weisner. No award has been made as yet for the best decorated building.
The delegates attending the convention departed this morning for their homes, and all declared themselves pleased with the entertainment and the hospitality shown by the residents of this city. All the delegates attended the grand ball last evening and it was a tired delegation that met at the train today. The dancing was kept up until an early hour this morning and every effort was made to provide a general good time for the visitors.

POTASH TESTS COLUMBUS MARSH WELL BORINGS

SHOWINGS ARE DECLARED FAVORABLE AFTER GOVERNMENT MAKES TESTS.

In view of the interest expressed in the further results obtained by the geological survey for mte tests by drilling for potash salts at Columbus marsh, Nevada, a tabulation of analysis has been issued for public information. The record quoted in Press Bulletin No. 97, Feb., 1913, from well No. 400 contains the highest results found in the holes so far put down.
Most of the analyses made are analyses of the saline content of the mud samples obtained in drilling the holes. The water samples representing flows encountered at various depths in these saline muds are rather unexpectedly dilute, and as shown by their analyses, the salts contained in them do not show an unusually high potash content such as was found in some of the muds. Not enough exploration has yet been done at this place to warrant any positive conclusion as to the possible existence or value of saline deposits that might be found. The chief factor of further special interest at present attaching to this deposit lies in the exceptionally high potash tests that were shown by some of the muds.
